

Professor CHAN Eng Soon

ScD MIT, FSAEng, FIES, FIMAREST

Chief Executive Officer
Technology Centre for Offshore and Marine, Singapore

Professor Chan Eng Soon is the Chief Executive Officer of the Technology Centre for Offshore and Marine, Singapore, and the Director of the Marine and Offshore Programme at the Science and Engineering Research Council, A*STAR. He is also a Provost's Chair Professor at the Faculty of Engineering, National University of Singapore.

Prior to his current appointments, he held several key appointments in the National University of Singapore, including being the Vice Provost (Special Duties) in the Provost Office, Keppel Chair Professor at the Department of Civil & Environmental Engineering, Dean of Engineering, Head of the then Civil Engineering Department, Director of the Tropical Marine Science Institute and Executive Director of the Centre for Offshore Research and Engineering at NUS. He has also served in the Management Board of several institutions and research laboratories/centres, including the Centre for Remote Imaging, Sensing and Processing, Institute for Mathematical Sciences, Temasek Laboratories, Temasek Defence Systems Institute and the Tropical Marine Science Institute. He is currently a member of the Workplace Safety and Health Council. He also serves in the PUB Board and the Board of the DSO National Laboratories.